

Lifestyle & Health: Disease Risk

Test · 37 marks total

Name: _____ Date: _____ Score: _____ / 37

Section A — Communicable & non-communicable disease

A1. What is a communicable disease?

[2 marks]

A2. What is a non-communicable disease? Give one example.

[3 marks]

Section B — Risk factors

B1. State three lifestyle risk factors linked to non-communicable disease.

[3 marks]

B2. Name two diseases that smoking is a risk factor for.

[2 marks]

B3. A study finds that people who eat more processed food are more likely to develop type 2 diabetes. Explain why this does not prove that processed food causes type 2 diabetes.

[3 marks]

Section C — Cardiovascular disease & treatment

C1. Describe what happens in the arteries in coronary heart disease.

[2 marks]

C2. Describe how a stent treats coronary heart disease.

[2 marks]

C3. Explain how statins help to treat cardiovascular disease.

[2 marks]

C4. Evaluate the use of a heart transplant compared with an artificial heart for a patient with severe heart failure.

[4 marks]

Section D — Homeostasis

D1. What is homeostasis?

[2 marks]

D2. Give two examples of conditions the body keeps constant inside itself.

[2 marks]

D3. Describe the general pattern by which the body responds to a change and restores the normal level.

[3 marks]

Section E — Apply it

E1. A patient with narrowed coronary arteries is offered either statins or a stent. Suggest one advantage and one disadvantage of each option.

[4 marks]

E2. Explain why someone who smokes, eats a poor diet, and does little exercise is at greater risk of cardiovascular disease than someone who does none of these things.

[3 marks]