

Lifestyle & Health: Hormones

Test · 37 marks total

Name: _____

Date: _____

Score: _____ / 37

Section A — The endocrine system & hormones vs nerves

A1. What is the endocrine system?

[2 marks]

A2. What is a hormone?

[2 marks]

A3. Give two differences between how the nervous system and the hormonal system send signals around the body.

[2 marks]

Section B — Blood glucose regulation

B1. Name the gland that monitors and controls blood glucose concentration.

[1 mark]

B2. Describe how insulin causes blood glucose concentration to fall after a meal.

[3 marks]

B3. What happens to excess glucose that is not immediately needed by cells?

[2 marks]

Section C — Type 1 & Type 2 diabetes

C1. What causes Type 1 diabetes?

[2 marks]

C2. What causes Type 2 diabetes?

[2 marks]

C3. Describe how Type 1 diabetes is usually treated.

[2 marks]

C4. Describe how Type 2 diabetes is usually treated.

[2 marks]

C5. Explain why uncontrolled diabetes can increase the risk of other diseases, such as cardiovascular disease.

[2 marks]

Section D — Hormones, lifestyle & health risk

D1. Explain why obesity is a risk factor for Type 2 diabetes.

[2 marks]

D2. State two lifestyle factors, other than obesity, linked to a higher risk of Type 2 diabetes.

[2 marks]

D3. Explain why Type 1 diabetes cannot be prevented by lifestyle changes, unlike Type 2 diabetes.

[2 marks]

Section E — Apply it

E1. Two patients are newly diagnosed with diabetes: Patient X has Type 1, Patient Y has Type 2. Compare the advice and treatment each patient is likely to be given.

[4 marks]

E2. A student says "insulin causes blood glucose to rise." Explain why this statement is incorrect, and correct it.

[3 marks]

E3. Suggest why regularly monitoring blood glucose concentration is important for someone with diabetes.

[2 marks]